Anna W. Chan is an associate in the Privacy & Cybersecurity Group and member of the Technology Media & Telecommunications group.

Anna's practice focuses on privacy and data security. She regularly works with clients in the development and/or enhancement of privacy compliance programs, including drafting online and offline privacy policies, procedures, and related notices. Anna often assists clients with the drafting, review, and negotiation of data processing agreements. She also has experience counseling clients on privacy-related issues in marketing, such as email and telemarketing, as well as privacy-related issues in the ad tech space, including the use of cross-device tracking technologies.

Anna also regularly assists clients with identifying, evaluating, and addressing cybersecurity risks, including advising on proactive cyber incident readiness activities, such as tabletop exercises and incident response plans. She also assists clients with data breach and cybersecurity incident response, including analyzing breach notification laws and preparation of notices to impacted individuals and regulators. Anna also frequently assists clients in conducting diligence and negotiating privacy and data security aspects of corporate transactions

Prior to joining Proskauer, Anna was a privacy counsel at a Fortune 500 pharmaceutical company, where she advised the company on data privacy compliance for the company's U.S. operations.

Anna is a Certified Information Privacy Professional in the United States (CIPP/US).
